A Digital Anthology of Early Modern English Drama

emed.folger.edu

Discover over four hundred early modern English plays that were professionally performed in London between 1576 and 1642. Browse plays written by Shakespeare's contemporaries; explore the repertoires of London's professional companies; and download plays for reading and research.

This documentary edition has been edited to provide an accurate and transparent transcription of a single copy of the earliest surviving print edition of this play. Further material, including editorial policy and XML files of the play, is available on the EMED website. EMED texts are edited and encoded by Meaghan Brown, Michael Poston, and Elizabeth Williamson, and build on work done by the EEBO-TCP and the Shakespeare His Contemporaries project. This project is funded by a Humanities Collections and Reference Resources grant from the NEH's Division of Preservation and Access.

SVMMERS last will and Testament.

Enter Will Summers in his fooles coate but halfe on, comming out.

NOctem peccatis, & fraudibus obiice nubem. There is no such fine time to play the knaue in, as the night. I am a Goose or a Ghost at least; for what with turmovle of getting my fooles apparell, and care of being perfit, I am sure I have not yet supt to night. Will Summers Ghost I should be, come to present you with Summers last will, and Testament. Be it so, if my cousin Ned will lend me his Chayne and his Fiddle. Other stately pac't Prologues vse to attire themselues within: I that have a toy in my head, more then ordinary, and vse to goe without money, without garters, without girdle, without a hat-band, without poynts to my hose, without a knife to my dinner, and make so much vse of this word without, in euery thing, will here dresse me without. Dick Huntley cryes, Begin, begin: and all the whole house. For shame come away; when I had my things but now brought me out of the Lawndry. God forgiue me, I did not see my Lord before. Ile set a good face on it, as though what I had talkt idly all this while, were my part. So it is, boni viri, that one foole presents another; and I a foole by nature, and by arte, do speake to you in the person of the Idiot our Playmaker. He like a Foppe & an Asse, must be making himselfe a publike laughing stock, & haue no thanke for his labor; where other Magisterij, whose invention is farre more exquisite, are content to sit still, and doe nothing. Ile shewe you what a scuruy Prologue he had made me in an old vayne of similitudes: if you bee good fellowes, giue it the hearing, that you may iudge of him thereafter.

The Prologue.

AT a solemne feast of the Triumuiri in Rome, it was seene and obserued, that the birds ceased to sing, & sate solitarie on the house tops, by reason of the sight of a paynted Serpent set openly to view. So fares it with vs nouices, that here betray our imperfections: we, afraid to looke on the imaginary serpent of Enuy, paynted in mens affections, have ceased to tune any musike of mirth to your eares this tweluemonth, thinking, that as it is the nature of the serpent to hisse: so childhood and ignorance would play the goslings, contemning, and condemning what they vnderstood not. Their censures we wey not, whose sences are not yet vnswadled. The little minutes will be continually striking, though no man regard them. Whelpes will barke, before they can see, and striue to byte, before they haue teeth. Politianus speaketh of a beast, who, while hee is cut on the table, drinketh, and represents the motions & voyces of a liuing creature. Such like foolish beasts are we, who, whilest we are cut, mocked, & flowted at, in euery mans common talke, will notwithstanding proceed to shame our selues, to make sport. No man pleaseth all, we seeke to please one. Didymus wrote foure thousand bookes, or as some say, six thousand, of the arte of Grammar. Our Authour hopes, it may be as lawfull for him to write a thousand lines of as light a subiect. Socrates (whom the Oracle pronounced the wisest man of Greece) sometimes daunced. Scipio and Lelius by the seaside played at peeble-stone. Semel insaniuimus omnes. Euery man cannot, with Archimedes, make a heauen of brasse, or dig gold out of the iron mynes of the lawe. Such odde trifles, as Mathematicians experiments be, Artificiall flyes to hang in the ayre by themselues, daunsing balles, an egge-shell that shall clyme vp to the top of a speare, fiery breathing goares, Poetæ noster professeth not to make. Placeat sibi quisq; licebit. What's a foole but his bable? Deepe reaching wits, heere is no deepe streame for you to angle in. Moralizers, you that wrest a neuer meant meaning, out of euery thing, applying all things to the present time, keepe your attention for the common Stage: for here are no guips in Characters for you to reade. Vayne glozers, gather what you will. Spite, spell backwards, what thou canst. As the Parthians fight, flying away: so will wee prate and talke, but stand to nothing that we say. How say you, my masters, doe you not laugh at him for a Coxcombe? Why, he hath made a Prologue longer then his Play: nay, 'tis no Play neyther, but a shewe. Ile be sworne, the ligge of Rowlands God-sonne, is a Gyant in comparison of it. What can be made of Summers last will & Testament? Such another thing, as Gyllian of Braynfords will, where shee bequeathed a score of farts amongst her friends. Forsooth, because the plague raignes in most places in this latter end of summer, Summer must come in sicke: he must call his officers to account, veeld his throne to Autumne, make Winter his Executour, with tittle tattle Tom boy: God give you good night in Watling street. I care not what I say now: for I play no more then you heare; & some of that you heard to (by your leaue) was extempore. He were as good haue let me had the best part: for Ile be reueng'd on him to the vttermost, in this person of Will Summer, which I have put on to play the Prologue, and meane not to put off, till the play be done. Ile sit as a Chorus, and flowte the Actors and him at the end of euery Sceane: I know they will not interrupt me, for feare of marring of all: but looke to your cues, my masters; for I intend to play the knaue in cue, and put you besides all your parts, if you take not the better heede. Actors, you Rogues, come away, cleare your throats, blowe your noses, and wype your mouthes e're you enter, that you may take no occasion to spit or to cough, when you are non plus. And this I barre ouer and besides, That none of you stroake your beardes, to make action, play with your cod-piece poynts, or stad fumbling on your buttons, when you know not how to bestow your fingers. Serue God, and act cleanly; a fit of mirth, and an old song first, if you will.

Enter Summer, leaning on Autumnes and Winters shoulders, and attended on with a trayne of Satyrs, and wood-Nymphs, singing.

Fayre Summer droops, droope men and beasts therefore:

So fayre a summer looke for neuer more.

All good things vanish, lesse then in a day,

Peace, plenty, pleasure sodainely decay.

Goe not yet away bright soule of the sad yeare.

The earth is hell, when thou leau'st to appeare.

What, shall those flowres that deckt thy garland erst,

Vpon thy graue be wastfully disperst?

O trees, consume your sap in sorrowes sourse.

Streames, turne to teares your tributary course.

Goe not yet hence, bright soule of the sad yeare.

The earth is hell, when thou leau'st to appeare.

The Satyrs and wood-Nymphs goe out singing, and leave Summer and Winter and Autumne on the stage.

Will. Summer. A couple of pratty boyes, if they would wash their faces, and were well breecht an houre or two. The rest of the greene men haue reasonable voyces, good to sing catches, or the great Iowben by the fires side, in a winters euening. But let vs heare what Summer can say for himselfe, why hee should not be hist at.

Summer. What pleasure alway lasts? no ioy endures:

Summer I was, I am not as I was:

Haruest and age haue whit'ned my greene head:

On Autumne now and Winter must I leane.

Needs must he fall, whom none but foes vphold.

Thus must the happiest man have his blacke day.

Omnibus vna manet nox, & calcanda semel via lethi.

This month haue I layne languishing a bed,

Looking eche houre to yeeld my life, and throne;

And dyde I had in deed vnto the earth,

But that Eliza Englands beauteous Queene,

On whom all seasons prosperously attend,

Forbad the execution of my fate,

Vntill her iovfull progresse was expir'd. For her doth Summer liue, and linger here, And wisheth long to liue to her content: But wishes are not had when they wish well. I must depart, my death-day is set downe: To these two must I leave my wheaten crowne. So vnto vnthrifts rich men leaue their lands, Who in an houre consume long labours gaynes. True is it that divinest Sidney sung, O, he is mard, that is for others made. Come neere, my friends, for I am neere my end. In presence of this Honourable trayne, Who loue me (for I patronize their sports) Meane I to make my finall Testament: But first Ile call my officers to count, And of the wealth I gaue them to dispose, Know what is left. I may know what to give Vertumnus then, that turnst the yere about. Summon them one by one to answere me, First Ver, the spring, vnto whose custody I have committed more then to the rest: The choyse of all my fragrant meades and flowres, And what delights soe're nature affords. Vertum.

I will, my Lord. Ver, lusty Ver, by the name of lusty Ver, come into the court, lose a marke in issues. Enter Ver with his trayne, ouerlayd with suites of greene mosse, representing short grasse, singing.

The Song.

Spring, the sweete spring, is the yeres pleasant King, Then bloomes eche thing, then maydes daunce in a ring, Cold doeth not sting, the pretty birds doe sing, Cuckow, iugge, iugge, pu we, to witta woo. The Palme and May make countrey houses gay. Lambs friske and play, the Shepherds pype all day, And we heare aye, birds tune this merry lay, Cuckow, iugge, iugge, pu we, to witta woo.

Will Summer. By my troth, they have voyces as cleare as Christall: this is a pratty thing, if it be for nothing but to goe a begging with.

Summers: Beleeue me, Ver, but thou art pleasant bent, This humor should import a harmlesse minde:

Knowst thou the reason why I sent for thee?

Ver. No faith, nor care not, whether I do or no. If you will daunce a Galliard, so it is: if not, Falangtado, Falangtado, to weare the blacke and yellow: Falangtado, Falāg-

Summer. Nay, stay a while, we must confer and talke.

Ver, call to mind I am thy soueraigne Lord,

And what thou hast, of me thou hast, and holdst.

Vnto no other end I sent for thee.

But to demaund a reckoning at thy hands,

How well or ill thou hast imployd my wealth.

Summer. How now? is this the reckoning we shall haue?

Winter. My Lord, he doth abuse you: brooke it not.

Autumne. Summa totalis I feare will proue him but a foole.

Deuoureth nor consumeth halfe so much. How well mightst thou haue liu'd within thy bounds?

Ver: What talke you to me, of liuing within my bounds? I tell you, none but Asses liue within their bounds: the silly beasts, if they be put in a pasture, that is eaten bare to the very earth, & where there is nothing to be had but thistles, will rather fall soberly to those thistles, and be hungerstaru'd, then they will offer to breake their bounds; whereas the lusty courser, if he be in a barrayne plot, and spye better grasse in some pasture neere adioyning, breakes ouer hedge and ditch, and to goe, e're he will be pent in, and not haue his belly full. Peraduenture, the horses lately sworne to be stolne, carried that youthfull mind, who, if they had bene Asses, would haue bene yet extant.

Will Summers. Thus we may see, the longer we liue, the more wee shall learne: I ne're thought honestie an asse, till this day.

This world is transitory, it was made of nothing, and Ver. it must to nothing: wherefore, if wee will doe the will of our high Creatour, (whose will it is, that it passe to nothing) wee must helpe to consume it to nothing. Gold is more vile then men: Men dye in thousands, and ten thousands, yea, many times in hundreth thousands in one battaile. If then, the best husband bee so liberall of his best handyworke, to what ende should we make much of a glittering excrement, or doubt to spend at a banket as many pounds, as he spends men at a battaile? Me thinkes I honour Geta the Romane Emperour, for a braue minded fellow: for he commaunded a banket to bee made him of all meats vnder the Sunne; which were serued in after the order of the Alphabet; and the Clarke of the kitchin following the last dish (which was two mile off from the formost) brought him an Index of their seuerall names: Neyther did he pingle when it was set on the boord, but for the space of three dayes and three nights, neuer rose from the Table.

Will Summers. O intolerable lying villayne, that was neuer begotten without the consent of a whetstone.

Summer.

Vngratious man, how fondly he argueth! Summer. Tell me, I pray, wherefore was gold layd vnder our Ver. feete in the veynes of the earth, but that wee should contemne it, and treade vpon it, and so consequently treade thrift vnder our feete? It was not knowne, till the Iron age, donec facinus inuasit mortales, as the Poet sayes; and the Scythians alwayes detested it. I will proue it, that an vnthrift, of any, comes neerest a happy man, in so much as he comes neerest to beggery. Cicero saith, summum bonum consistes in omnium rerum vacatione, that it is the chiefest felicitie that may be, to rest from all labours. Now, who doeth so much vacare à rebus, who rests so much? who hath so little to doe, as the begger? Who can sing so merry a note, as he that cannot change a groate? Cui nil est, nil deest: hee that hath nothing, wants nothing. On the other side, it is said of the Carle, Omnia habeo, nec quicquam habeo: I have all things, yet want every thing. Multi mihi vitio vertunt, quia egeo, saith Marcus Cato in Aulus Gellius, at ego illis, quia nequeunt egere: Many vpbrayde me, sayth he, because I am poore: but I vpbrayd them, because they cannot liue if they were poore. It is a common prouerbe, Dinesg; miserg;, a rich man, and a miserable: nam natura paucis cōtenta, none so contented as the poore man. Admit that the chiefest happines were not rest or ease, but knowledge, as Herillus, Alcidamas, & many of Socrates followers affirme; why, paupertas omnes perdocet artes, pouerty instructs a man in all arts, it makes a man hardy and venturous; and therefore it is called of the Poets, Paupertas audax, valiant pouerty. It is not so much subject to inordinate desires, as wealth or prosperity. Non habet vnde suum paupertas pascat amorem: pouerty hath not wherewithall to feede lust. All the Poets were beggers: all Alcumists, and all Philosophers are beggers: Omnia mea mecum porto, quoth Bias, when he had nothing, but bread and cheese in a letherne bagge, and two or three bookes in his bosome. Saint Frauncis, a holy Saint, & neuer had any money. It is madnes to dote vpon mucke. That young man of Athens, (Aelianus makes mention of) may be an example to vs, who doted so extremely on the image of Fortune, that when hee might not inioy it, he dyed for sorrow. The earth yelds all her fruites together, and why should not we spend them together? I thanke heauens on my knees, that haue made mee an vn-thrift.

Wer, since thou giu'st such prayse to beggery,

And hast defended it so valiantly,

This be thy penance; Thou shalt ne're appeare,

Or come abroad, but Lent shall wayte on thee:

His scarsity may counteruayle thy waste.

Ryot may flourish, but findes want at last.

Take him away, that knoweth no good way,

And leade him the next way to woe and want.

Thus in the paths of knowledge many stray,

And from the meanes of life fetch their decay.

Heigh ho. Here is a coyle in deede to bring Will Summer. beggers to stockes. I promise you truely, I was almost asleep; I thought I had bene at a Sermon. Well, for this one nights exhortation, I vow (by Gods grace) neuer to be good husband while I liue. But what is this to the purpose? Hur come to Powl (as the Welshman sayes) and hur pay an halfepenny for hur seat, and hur heare the Preacher talge, and a talge very well by gis, but yet a cannot make hur laugh: goe a Theater, and heare a Queenes Fice, and he make hur laugh, and laugh hur belly-full. So we come hither to laugh and be merry, and we heare a filthy beggerly Oration, in the prayse of beggery. It is a beggerly Poet that writ it: and that makes him so much commend it, because hee knowes not how to mend himselfe. Well, rather then he shall haue no imployment but licke dishes, I will set him a worke my selfe, to write in prayse of the arte of stouping, and howe there was neuer any famous Thresher, Porter, Brewer, Pioner, or Carpenter, that had streight backe. I do you honour for aduancing me.
Why, t'is a credit for your excellence,
To have so great a subject as I am:
This is your glorie and magnificence,
That without stouping of your mightinesse,
Or taking any whit from your high state,
You can make one as mightie as your selfe.

Autumne. O arrogance exceeding all beliefe!

Summer my Lord, this sawcie vpstart lacke,
That now doth rule the chariot of the Sunne,
And makes all starres deriue their light from him,
Is a most base insinuating slaue,
The sonne of parsimony, and disdaine,
One that will shine, on friends and foes alike,
That vnder brightest smiles, hideth blacke showers:
Whose enuious breath doth dry vp springs and lakes,
And burnes the grasse, that beastes can get no foode.

Winter. No dunghill hath so vilde an excrement, But with his beames hee will forthwith exhale:
The fennes and quag-myres tithe to him their filth:
Foorth purest mines he suckes a gainefull drosse:
Greene Iuy-bushes at the Vintners doores
He withers, and deuoureth all their sap.

Autumne. Lasciuious and intemperate he is.

long sicke of a payne in his eyes, whom, vnder pretence of curing his maladie, he shau'd from one side of his head, to the other, and with a soft pensill wrote vpon his scalpe, (as on parchment) the discourse of his busines, the fellow all the while imagining, his master had done nothing but noynt his head with a feather. After this, hee kept him secretly in his tent, till his hayre was somewhat growne, and then wil'd him to go to Aristagoras into the countrey, and bid him shaue him, as he had done, and he should have perfit remedie. He did so: Aristagoras shau'd him with his owne hands, read his friends letter; and when hee had done, washt it out, that no man should perceyue it else, and sent him home to buy him a nightcap. If I wist there were any such knauery, or Peter Bales Brachigraphy, vnder Sols bushy hayre, I would have a Barber, my hoste of the Murrions head, to be his Interpretour, who would whet his rasor on his Richmond cap, and give him the terrible cut, like himselfe, but he would come as neere as a quart pot, to the construction of it. That dogs of all come neerest, thus I proue: First they excell vs in all outward sence, Which no one of experience will deny, They heare, they smell, they see better then we, To come to speech they have it questionlesse, Although we vnderstand them not so well: They barke as good old Saxon as may be, And that in more varietie then we: For they have one voice when they are in chase. Another, when they wrangle for their meate, Another, when we beate them out of dores. That they have reason, this I will alleadge, They choose those things that are most fit for them, And shunne the contrarie all that they may, They know what is for their owne diet best, And seeke about for't very carefully. At sight of any whip they runne away, As runs a thiefe from noise of hue and crie: Nor liue they on the sweat of others browes, But have their trades to get their living with, Hunting and conie-catching, two fine artes: Yea, there be of them as there be of men, Of euerie occupation more or lesse: Some cariers, and they fetch, some watermen, And they will diue and swimme when you bid them: Some butchers, and they worrie sheep by night: Some cookes, and they do nothing but turne spits. Chrisippus holds, dogs are Logicians, In that by studie and by canuasing, They can distinguish twixt three seuerall things. As when he commeth where three broad waies meet, And of those three hath staid at two of them, By which he gesseth that the game went not, Without more pause he runneth on the third, Which, as Chrisippus saith, insinuates, As if he reason'd thus within himselfe:

wln 0711	Eyther he went this, that, or yonder way,
wln 0712	But neyther that, nor yonder, therefore this:
wln 0713	But whether they Logicians be or no,
wln 0714	Cinicks they are, for they will snarle and bite,
wln 0715	Right courtiers to flatter and to fawne,
wln 0716	Valiant to set vpon the enemies,
wln 0717	Most faithfull and most constant to their friends;
wln 0718	Nay they are wise, as Homer witnesseth,
wln 0719	Who talking of Vlisses comming home,
wln 0720	Saith all his houshold, but Argus his Dogge,
wln 0721	Had quite forgot him: I, and his deepe insight,
wln 0722	Nor Pallas Art in altering of his shape,
wln 0723	Nor his base weeds, nor absence twenty yeares,

wln 0728	Speciall good Surgions to cure dangerous wounds:
wln 0729	For strucken with a stake into the flesh,
wln 0730	This policie they vse to get it out:
wln 0731	They traile one of their feet vpon the ground, wln 0732	And gnaw the flesh about where the wound is,
wln 0733	Till it be cleane drawne out: and then, because
wln 0734	Vlcers and sores kept fowle, are hardly cur'de,
wln 0735	They licke and purifie it with their tongue,
wln 0736	And well obserue Hipocrates old rule,
wln 0737	The onely medicine for the foote, is rest:
wln 0738	For if they have the least hurt in their feet,
wln 0739	They beare them vp, and looke they be not stird:
wln 0740	When humours rise, they eate a soueraigne herbe,

Will Summer. Faith, this Sceane of Orion, is right prandium caninum, a dogs dinner, which as it is without wine, so here's a coyle about dogges, without wit. If I had thought the ship of fooles would have stayde to take in fresh water at the Ile of dogges, I would have furnisht it with a whole kennell of collections to the purpose. I have had a dogge my selfe, that would dreame, and talke in his sleepe, turne round like Ned foole, and sleepe all night in a porridge pot. Marke but the skirmish betweene sixpence and the foxe, and it is miraculous, how they ouercome one another in honorable curtesy. The foxe, though he weares a chayne, runnes as though hee were free, mocking vs (as it is a crafty beast) because we hauing a Lord and master to attend on, runne about at our pleasures, like masterles men. Young sixpence, the best page his master hath, playes a little, and retires. I warrant, he will not be farre out of the way, when his master goes to dinner. Learne of him, you deminitiue vrchins, howe to behaue your selues in your vocation, take not vp your standings in a nuttree, when you should be waiting on my Lords trencher. Shoote but a bit at buttes, play but a span at poyntes. What euer you doe, memento mori: remember to rise betimes in the morning.

Summer. Vertumnus, call Haruest.

Vertumnus. Haruest, by west, and by north, by south and southeast, shewe thy selfe like a beast. Goodman Haruest yeoman, come in, and say what you can: roome for the sithe and the siccles there.

Enter Haruest with a sythe on his neck, & all his reapers with siccles, and a great black bowle with a posset in it, borne before him: they come in singing.

Merry, merry, merry, cheary, cheary, cheary, Trowle the black bowle to me, Hey derry, derry, with a poupe and a lerry, Ile trowle it againe to thee: Hooky, hooky, we have shorne, and we have bound. And we have brought Haruest home to towne.

Summer. Haruest, the Bayly of my husbandry, What plenty hast thou heapt into our Barnes? I hope thou hast sped well thou art so blithe. Sped well, or ill sir, I drinke to you on the same: Haruest. Is your throate cleare to helpe vs to sing, hooky, hooky?

Heere they all sing after him,

Hooky, hooky, we have shorne, and we have bound. And we haue brought haruest home to towne.

Winter. Mocke not, & mowe not too long you were best, For feare we whet not your sythe vpon your pate.

Summer. Since thou art so peruerse in answering, Haruest, heare what complaints are brought to me.

Thou art accused by the publike voyce,

For an ingresser of the common store,

A Carle, that hast no conscience, nor remorse,

But doost impouerish the fruitfull earth,

To make thy garners rise vp to the heauens.

To whom givest thou? who feedeth at thy boord?

No almes, but vnreasonable gaine,

Disgests what thy huge yron teeth deuoure:

Small beere, course bread, the hynds and beggers cry,

Whilest thou withholdest both the mault and flowre,

And giu'st vs branne, and water, (fit for dogs.)

Haruest. Hooky, hooky, if you were not my Lord, I would say you lye. First and formost you say I am a Grocer. A Grocer is a citizen: I am no citizen, therefore no Grocer. A hoorder vp of graine: that's false; for not so much but my elbows eate wheate euery time I leane on them. A Carle: that is as much to say, as a conny-catcher of good fellowship. For that one word, you shall pledge me a carouse: eate a spoonfull of the curd to allay your choller. My mates and fellowes, sing no more, Merry, merry: but weep out a lametable hooky, hooky, and let your Sickles cry, Sicke, sicke, and very sicke, & sicke, and for the time; for Haruest your master is abusde without reason or rime. I have no conscience I; Ile come neerer to you, and yet I am no scabbe, nor no louse. Can you make proofe where euer I sold away my conscience, or pawnd it? doe you know who would buy it, or lend any money vpon it? I thinke I have given you the pose; blow your nose, master constable. But to say that I impouerish the earth, that I robbe the man in the moone, that I take a purse on the top of Paules steeple; by this straw and thrid I sweare, you are no gentleman, no proper man, no honest man, to make mee sing, O man in desperation.

Summer. I must giue credit vnto what I heare; For other then I heare, attract I nought.

I, I, nought seeke, nought haue: an ill husband is Haruest. the first steppe to a knaue. You object I feede none at my boord. I am sure, if you were a hogge, you would neuer say so: for, surreuerence of their worships, they feed at my stable, table, euery day. I keepe good hospitality for hennes & geese: Gleaners are oppressed with heavy burdens of my bounty. They rake me, and eate me to the very bones, till there be nothing left but grauell and stones, and yet I giue no almes, but deuoure all. They say when a man cannot heare well, you heare with your haruest eares: but if you heard with your haruest eares, that is, with the eares of corne, which my almescart scatters, they would tell you, that I am the very poore mans boxe of pitie, that there are more holes of liberality open in haruests heart, then in a siue, or a dust-boxe. Suppose you were a craftsman, or an Artificer, and should come to buy corne of mee, you should have bushels of mee, not like the Bakers loafe, that should waygh but sixe ounces, but vsury for your mony, thousands for one: what would you have more? Eate mee out of my apparell, if you will, if you suspect mee for a miser.

Summer. I credit thee, and thinke thou wert belide. But tell mee, hadst thou a good crop this yeare?

Haruest. Hay, Gods plenty, which was so sweete and so good, that when I ierted my whip, and said to my horses but Hay, they would goe as they were mad.

Summer. But hay alone thou saist not; but hay-ree.

Haruest. I sing hay-ree, that is, hay and rye: meaning, that they shall haue hay and rye their belly-fulls, if they will draw hard; So wee say, wa, hay, when they goe out of the way: meaning, that they shall want hay, if they will not doe as they should doe.

Summer. How thriue thy oates, thy barley, and thy wheate? Haruest. My oates grew like a cup of beere that makes the brewer rich: my rye like a Caualier, that weares a huge feather Mounsieur Mingo, for quæffing doth surpasse, In Cuppe, in Canne, or glasse. God Bacchus doe mee right, And dubbe mee knight Domingo.

Bacchus. Wherefore didst thou call mee, Vertumnus? hast any drinke to giue mee? One of you hold my Asse while I light: walke him vp and downe the hall, till I talke a word or two.

Summer. What, Bacchus: still animus in patinis, no mind but on the pot?

Bacchus. Why, Summer, Summer, how would'st doe, but for rayne? What is a faire house without water comming to it? Let mee see how a smith can worke, if hee haue not his trough standing by him. What sets an edge on a knife? the grindstone alone? no, the movst element powr'd upō it, which grinds out all gaps, sets a poynt vpon it, & scowres it as bright as the firmament. So, I tell thee, give a soldier wine before he goes to battaile, it grinds out all gaps, it makes him forget all scarres and wounds, and fight in the thickest of his enemies, as though hee were but at foyles, amongst his fellows. Giue a scholler wine, going to his booke, or being about to inuent, it sets a new poynt on his wit, it glazeth it, it scowres it, it giues him acumen. Plato saith, vinum esse fomitem quēdam, et incitabilem ingenij virtutisque. Aristotle saith, Nulla est magna scientia absque mixtura dementiæ. There is no excellent knowledge without mixture of madnesse. And what makes a man more madde in the head then wine? Qui bene vult povein, debet ante pinyen, he that will doe well, must drinke well. Prome, prome, potum prome: Ho butler, a fresh pot. Nunc est bibēdum, nunc pede libero terra pulsanda: a pox on him that leaues his drinke behinde him; hey Rendouow.

Bac. Faith, shal I tel you no lye? Because you are my coutryman, & so forth, & a good fellow, is a good fellow, though he haue neuer a penny in his purse: We had but euen pot luck, a little to moysten our lips, and no more. That same Sol, is a Pagan, and a Proselite, hee shinde so bright all summer, that he burnd more grapes, then his beames were worth, were euery beame as big as a weauers beame. A fabis abstinendum: faith, he shuld haue abstaind: for what is flesh & blud without his liquor?

Autumne. Thou want'st no liquor, nor no flesh and bloud. I pray thee may I aske without offence? How many tunnes of wine hast in thy paunch? Me thinks, that, built like a round church, Should yet haue some of Iulius Cæsars wine: I warrant, 'twas not broacht this hundred yere.

Bacchus. Hear'st, thou dow-belly, because thou talkst, and talkst, & dar'st not drinke to me a black lack, wilt thou giue me leaue, to broach this little kilderkin of my corps, against thy backe? I know thou art but a mycher, & dar'st not stand me. A vous, moūsieur Winter, a frolick vpsy freese, crosse, ho, super nagulū.

Winter. Grammercy, Bacchus, as much as though I did.

For this time thou must pardon me perforce.

Bacchus. What, giue me the disgrace? Goe to, I say, I am no Pope, to pardō any man. Ran, ran, tarra, cold beere makes good bloud. S. George for Englad: somewhat is better then nothing. Let me see, hast thou done me iustice? why so: thou art a king, though there were no more kings in the cards but the knaue. Summer, wilt thou haue a demy culuering, that shall cry husty tusty, and make thy cup flye fine meale in the Element?

Summer. No, keepe thy drinke, I pray thee, to thy selfe.

Bacchus. This Pupillonian in the fooles coate, shall haue a cast of martins, & a whiffe. To the health of Captaine Rinocerotry: looke to it, let him haue weight and measure.

Will Summer. What an asse is this? I cannot drinke so much, though I should burst.

Bacchus. Foole, doe not refuse your moyst sustenance; come, come, dogs head in the pot, doe what you are borne to.

Will Summer. If you will needs make me a drunkard against my will, so it is, ile try what burthen my belly is of.

Bacchus. Crouch, crouch on your knees, foole, when you pledge god Bacchus.

Here Will Sumer drinks, & they sing about him. Bacchus begins.

All, Mounsieur Mingo for quaffing did surpasse, In Cup, in Can, or glasse.

Bacchus. Ho, wel shot, a tutcher, a tutcher: for quaffing Toy doth passe, in cup, in canne, or glasse.

All. God Bacchus doe him right, and dubbe him knight.

Bac. Rise vp Sir Robert Tospot. Here he dubs Will Summer

Sum, No more of this, I hate it to the death. with the black No such deformer of the soule and sence. Iacke.

A in the source and sence,

As is this swynish damn'd-borne drunkennes.

Bacchus, for thou abusest so earths fruits,

Impris' ned liue in cellars and in vawtes,

Let none commit their counsels vnto thee:

Thy wrath be fatall to thy dearest friends,

Vnarmed runne vpon thy foemens swords,

Neuer feare any plague, before it fall:

Dropsies, and watry tympanies haunt thee,

Thy lungs with surfeting be putrified,

To cause thee haue an odious stinking breath,

Slauer and driuell like a child at mouth,

Bee poore and beggerly in thy old age, Let thy owne kinsmen laugh, when thou complaynst, And many teares gayne nothing but blind scoffes. This is the guerdon due to drunkennes; Shame, sicknes, misery, followe excesse.

Bacchus. Now on my honor, Sim Summer, thou art a bad member, a Dunse, a mungrell, to discredit so worshipfull an arte after this order. Thou hast curst me, and I will blesse thee: Neuer cup of Nipitaty in London, come neere thy niggardly habitation. I beseech the gods of good fellowship, thou maist fall into a consumption with drinking smal beere. Euery day maist thou eate fish, and let it sticke in the midst of thy maw, for want of a cup of wine to swim away in. Venison be Venenum to thee: & may that Vintner haue the plague in his house, that sels thee a drop of claret to kill the poyson of it. As many wounds maist thou haue, as Casar had in the Senate house, and get no white wine to wash them with: And to conclude, pine away in melancholy and sorrow, before thou hast the fourth part of a dramme of my Iuice to cheare vp thy spirits.

Summer. Hale him away, he barketh like a wolfe, It is his drinke, not hee that rayles on vs.

Bacchus. Nay soft, brother Summer, back with that foote, here is a snuffe in the bottome of the Iack, inough to light a man to bed withall, wee'le leaue no flocks behind vs whatsoeuer wee doe.

Summer. Go dragge him hence I say when I commaund. Bacchus. Since we must needs goe, let's goe merrily. Farewell, sir Robert Tosse-pot: sing amayne, Mounsieur Myngo, whilest I mount vp my Asse.

Here they goe out singing, Mounsieur Myngo, as they came in. Will Summer. Of all gods, this Bacchus is the ill-fauourd'st misshapen god that euer I sawe. A poxe on him, he hath cristned me with a newe nickname of sir Robert Tosse-pot, that will not part frō me this twelmonth. Carowse, pledge me and you dare: S'wounds, ile drinke with thee for all that euer thou art worth. It is eue as 2. men should striue who should run furthest into the sea for a wager. Me thinkes these are good houshold termes; Wil it please you to be here, sir? I comend me to you: shall I be so bold as trouble you? sauing your tale I drink to you. And if these were put in practise but a yeare or two in tauernes, wine would soone fall from six and twentie pound a tunne, and be beggers money, a penie a quart, and take vp his Inne with wast beere in the almes tub. A bad account: worse seruants no man hath.

Quos credis fidos effuge, tutus eris:

The prouerbe I haue prou'd to be too true,

Totidem domi hostes habemus, quot seruos.

And that wise caution of Democritus,

Seruus necessaria possessio, non autem dulcis:

No where fidelitie and labour dwels.

Hope, young heads count to build on had I wist.

Conscience but few respect, all hunt for gaine:

Except the Cammell haue his prouender

Hung at his mouth, he will not trauell on.

Tyresias to Narcissus promised

Much prosperous hap, and many golden daies,

If of his beautie he no knowledge tooke.

Knowledge breeds pride, pride breedeth discontent.

Blacke discontent, thou vrgest to reuenge.

Reuenge opes not her eares to poore mens praiers.

and Testament.

And make the Ocean a dry land of Yce. With tempest of my breath, turne vp high trees, On mountaines heape vp second mounts of snowe, Which melted into water, might fall downe, As fell the deluge on the former world. I hate the ayre, the fire, the Spring, the yeare, And what so e're brings mankinde any good. O that my lookes were lightning to blast fruites! Would I with thunder presently might dye, So I might speake in thunder, to slay men. Earth, if I cannot iniure thee enough, Ile bite thee with my teeth, Ile scratch thee thus, Ile beate downe the partition with my heeles, Which as a mud-vault seuers hell and thee. Spirits, come vp, 'tis I that knock for you, One that enuies the world, farre more then you: Come vp in millions, millions are to few, To execute the malice I intend. O scelus inauditum. O vox damnatorum!

Not raging Hæcuba, whose hollow eyes Gaue sucke to fiftie sorrowes at one time, That midwife to so many murders was, Vsde halfe the execrations that thou doost.

Back-winter. More I wil vse, if more I may preuaile:

Back-winter comes but seldome foorth abroad,

But when he comes, he pincheth to the proofe;

Winter is milde, his sonne is rough and sterne.

Ouid could well write of my tyrranny,

When he was banisht to the frozen Zoane.

And banisht be thou fro my fertile bounds. Summer.

Winter, imprison him in thy darke Cell,

Or with the windes, in bellowing caues of brasse,

Let sterne Hipporlatos locke him vp safe,

Ne're to peepe foorth, but when thou faint and weake

Want'st him to ayde thee in thy regiment.

Back-winter. I will peepe foorth, thy kingdome to supplant:

My father I will quickly freeze to death, And then sole Monarch will I sit and thinke, How I may banish thee, as thou doost me.

Winter. I see my downefall written in his browes:

Conuay him hence, to his assigned hell.

Fathers are given to loue their sonnes too well.

Wil Summer. No by my troth, nor mothers neither, I am sure I could neuer finde it. This Back-winter playes a rayling part to no purpose, my small learning findes no reason for it, except as a Back-winter or an after winter is more raging tempestuous, and violent then the beginning of Winter, so he brings him in stamping and raging as if he were madde, when his father is a iolly milde quiet olde man, and stands still and does nothing. The court accepts of your meaning; you might have writ in the margent of your play-booke, Let there be a fewe rushes laide in the place where Back-winter shall tumble, for feare of raying his cloathes: or set downe, Enter Back-winter, with his boy, bringing a brush after him, to take off the dust if need require. But you will ne're haue any ward-robe wit while you liue. I pray you holde the booke well, we be not nonplus in the latter end of the play.

Summer. This is the last stroke, my toungs clock must strike,

My last will, which I will that you performe:

My crowne I haue disposde already of.

Item, I give my withered flowers, and herbes,

Vnto dead corses, for to decke them with,

My shady walkes to great mens seruitors.

Who in their masters shadowes walke secure,

My pleasant open ayre, and fragrant smels,

To Croyden and the grounds abutting round,

My heate and warmth to toyling labourers,

My long dayes to bondmen, and prisoners,

My short nights to young married soules,

My drought and thirst, to drunkards quenchlesse throates,

My fruites to Autumne my adopted heire,

My murmuring springs, musicians of sweete sleepe,

To murmuring male-contents, with their well tun'de cares,

Channeld

The Song.

Autumne hath all the Summers fruitefull treasure, Gone is our sport, fled is poore Croydens pleasure: Short dayes, sharpe dayes, long nights come on a pace, Ah who shall hide vs, from the Winters face? Colde dooth increase, the sicknesse will not cease, And here we lye God knowes, with little ease: From winter, plague & pestilence, good Lord deliuer vs.

London dooth mourne, Lambith is quite forlorne, Trades cry, Woe worth, that euer they were borne: The want of Terme, is towne and Cities harme, Close chambers we do want, to keepe vs warme, Long banished must we liue from our friends: This lowe built house, will bring vs to our ends. From winter, plague & pestilence, good Lord deliuer vs.

Wil Summer. How is't? how is't? you that be of the grauer sort, do you thinke these youths worthy of a Plaudite for praying for the Queene, and singing of the Letany? they are poore fellowes I must needes say, and haue bestowed great labour in sowing leaues, and grasse, and strawe, and mosse vpon cast suites. You may do well to warme your hands with clapping, before you go to bed, and send them to the tauerne with merry hearts. Here is a pretty boy comes with an Epilogue, to get him audacity. I pray you sit still a little, and heare him say his lesson without booke. It is a good boy, be not afraide, turne thy face to my Lord. Thou and I will play at poutch, to morrow morning for a breakfast. Come and sit on my knee, and Ile daunce thee, if thou canst not indure to stand.

The Epilogue.

VLisses a Dwarffe, and the prolocutor for the Græcians, gaue me leaue that am a Pigmee, to doe an Embassage to you from the Cranes: Gentlemen (for Kings are no better) certaine humble Animals, called our Actors, commend them vnto you; who, what offence they have committed. I know not (except it be in purloyning some houres out of times treasury, that might have beene better imployde; but by me (the agent for their imperfections) they humbly craue pardon, if happily some of their termes have trodde awrye, or their tongues stumbled vnwittingly on any mans content. In much Corne is some Cockle; in a heape of coyne heere and there a peece of Copper; wit hath his dregs as well as wine; words their waste, Inke his blots, euery speech his Parenthesis, Poetical fury, as well Crabbes as Sweetings for his Summer fruites. Nemo sapit omnibus horis. Their folly is deceased, their feare is yet liuing. Nothing can kill an Asse but colde: colde entertainement, discouraging scoffes, authorized disgraces, may kill a whole litter of young Asses of them heere at once, that have traueld thus farre in impudence, onely in hope to sit a sunning in your smiles. The Romanes dedicated a Temple to the feuer quartane, thinking it some great God, because it shooke them so: and another, to Ill fortune in Exquilliis a Mountaine in Roome, that it should not plague them at Cardes and Dice. Your Graces frownes are to them shaking feuers, your least disfauours, the greatest ill fortune that may betide them. They can builde no Temples, but themselues and their best indeuours, with all prostrate reuerence, they here dedicate and offer vp, wholy to your seruice. Sis bonus, O fælixque tuis. To make the gods merry, the cœlestiall clowne Vulcan tun'de his polt foot, to the measures of Apolloes Lute, and daunst a limping Gallyard in Ioues starrie hall.

To make you merry that are the Gods of Art, and guides vnto heauen, a number of rude Vulcans, vnweldy speakers, hammer-headed clownes (for so it pleaseth them in modestie to name themselues) haue set their deformities to view, as it were in a daunce here before you. Beare with their wants, lull melancholie asleepe with their absurdities, and expect hereafter better fruites of their industrie. Little creatures often terrifie great beasts: the Elephant flyeth from a Ramme, the Lyon from a Cock and from fire; the Crocodile from all Sea-fish, the Whale from the noyse of parched bones; light toyes chase great cares. The great foole Toy hath marde the play: Good night, Gentlemen; I go, let him be carryed away.

Wil Summer. Is't true Iackanapes, doo you serue me so? As sure as this coate is too short for me, all the Points of your hoase for this are condemnde to my pocket, if you and I e're play at spanne Counter more. Valete, spectatores, pay for this sport with a Plaudite, and the next time the winde blowes from this corner, we will make you ten times as merry.

Barbarus hic ego sum, quia non intelligor vlli.
