A Digital Anthology of Early Modern English Drama

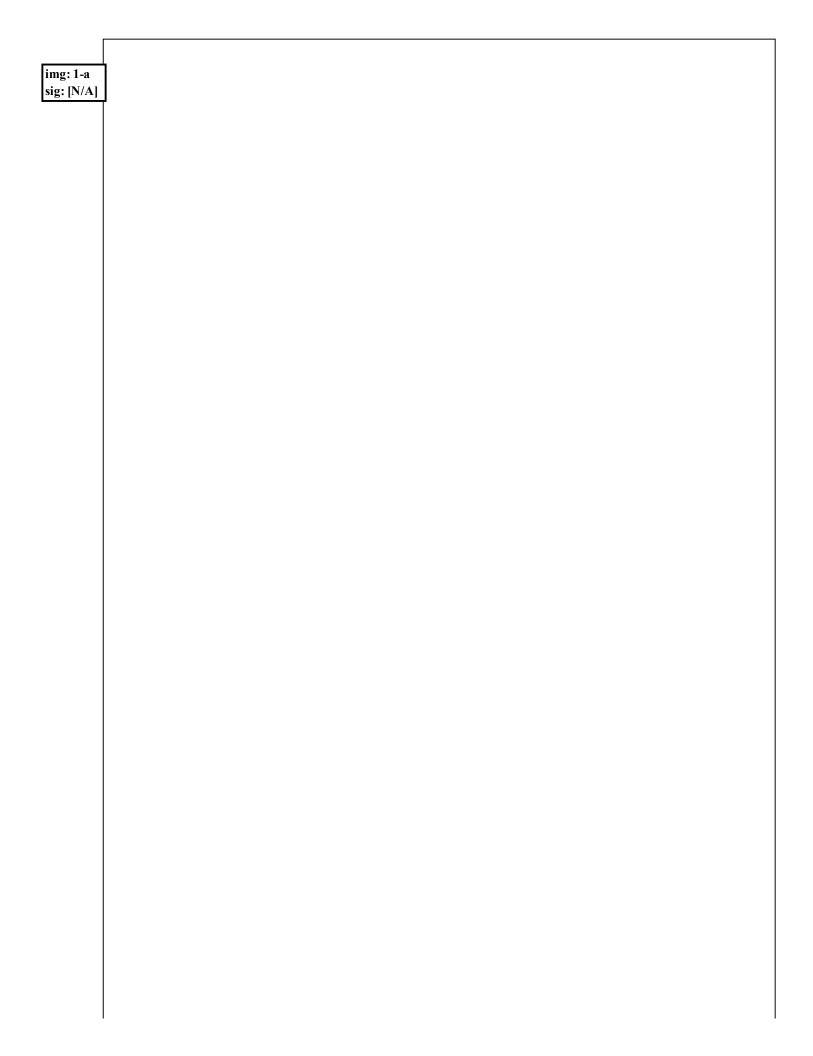

emed.folger.edu

Discover over four hundred early modern English plays that were professionally performed in London between 1576 and 1642. Browse plays written by Shakespeare's contemporaries; explore the repertoires of London's professional companies; and download plays for reading and research.

This documentary edition has been edited to provide an accurate and transparent transcription of a single copy of the earliest surviving print edition of this play. Further material, including editorial policy and XML files of the play, is available on the EMED website. EMED texts are edited and encoded by Meaghan Brown, Michael Poston, and Elizabeth Williamson, and build on work done by the EEBO-TCP and the Shakespeare His Contemporaries project. This project is funded by a Humanities Collections and Reference Resources grant from the NEH's Division of Preservation and Access.

The true Chronicle Historie of King Leir and his three daughters.

ACTVS I.

Enter King Leir and Nobles.

Thus to our griefe the obsequies performd Of our (too late) deceast and dearest Queen, Whose soule I hope, possest of heauely ioves, Doth ride in triumph 'mogst the Cherubins; Let vs request your graue aduice, my Lords, For the disposing of our princely daughters, For whom our care is specially imployd, As nature bindeth to aduaunce their states, In royall marriage with some princely mates: For wanting now their mothers good aduice, Vnder whose gouernment they have recevued A perfit patterne of a vertuous life: Left as it were a ship without a sterne, Or silly sheepe without a Pastors care; Although our selues doe dearely tender them, Yet are we ignorant of their affayres: For fathers best do know to gouerne sonnes; But daughters steps the mothers counsell turnes. A sonne we want for to succeed our Crowne. And course of time hath cancelled the date Of further issue from our withered loynes[·] One foote already hangeth in the graue, And age hath made deepe furrowes in my face: The world of me, I of the world am weary, And I would fayne resigne these earthly cares, And thinke vpon the welfare of my soule: Which by no better meanes may be effected, Then by resigning vp the Crowne from me, In equal dowry to my daughters three. A worthy care, my Liege, which well declares, Skalliger. The zeale you bare vnto our quondam Queene:

And since your Grace hath licens'd me to speake,

The History of King Leir

wln 0037	I censure thus; Your Maiesty knowing well,
wln 0038	What seuerall Suters your princely daughters haue, wln 0039	To make them eche a Ioynter more or lesse,
wln 0040	As is their worth, to them that loue professe.
wln 0041	Leir. No more, nor lesse, but euen all alike,
wln 0042	My zeale is fixt, all fashiond in one mould:
wln 0043	Wherefore vnpartiall shall my censure be,
wln 0044	Both old and young shall haue alike for me.
wln 0045	Nobl. My gracious Lord, I hartily do wish,
wln 0046	That God had lent you an heyre indubitate,
wln 0047	Which might haue set vpon your royall throne,
wln 0048	When fates should loose the prison of your life,
wln 0049	By whose succession all this doubt might cease;
wln 0050	And as by you, by him we might haue peace.
wln 0051	But after-wishes euer come too late,
wln 0052	And nothing can reuoke the course of fate:
wln 0053	Wherefore, my Liege, my censure deemes it best,
wln 0054	To match them with some of your neighbour Kings,
wln 0055	Bordring within the bounds of Albion,
wln 0056	By whose vnited friendship, this our state
wln 0057	May be protected 'gainst all forrayne hate.
wln 0058	Leir. Herein, my Lords, your wishes sort with mine, wln 0059	And mine (I hope) do sort with heauenly powers:
wln 0060	For at this instant two neere neyghbouring Kings
wln 0061	Of Cornwall and of Cambria, motion loue
wln 0062	To my two daughters, Gonorill and Ragan.
wln 0063	My youngest daughter, fayre Cordella , vowes
wln 0064	No liking to a Monarch, vnlesse loue allowes.
wln 0065	She is sollicited by diuers Peeres;
wln 0066	But none of them her partiall fancy heares.
wln 0067	Yet, if my policy may her beguyle,
wln 0068	Ile match her to some King within this Ile,
wln 0069	And so establish such a perfit peace,
wln 0070	As fortunes force shall ne're preuayle to cease.
wln 0071	Perillus. Of vs & ours, your gracious care, my Lord,
wln 0072	Deserues an euerlasting memory,
wln 0073	To be inrol'd in Chronicles of fame,
wln 0074	By neuer-dying perpetuity:

Yet to become so prouident a Prince, Lose not the title of a louing father: Do not force loue, where fancy cannot dwell, Lest streames being stopt, aboue the banks do swell.

Lest streames being stopt, aboue the banks do swell Leir. I am resolu'd, and euen now my mind Doth meditate a sudden stratagem,
To try which of my daughters loues me best:
Which till I know, I cannot be in rest.
This graunted, when they ioyntly shall contend,
Eche to exceed the other in their loue:
Then at the vantage will I take Cordella, Euen as she doth protest she loues me best,
Ile say, Then, daughter, graunt me one request,
To shew thou louest me as thy sisters doe,

Accept a husband, whom my selfe will woo.

This sayd, she cannot well deny my sute, Although (poore soule) her sences will be mute:

Then will I tryumph in my policy,

And match her with a King of Brittany.

Skal. Ile to them before, and bewray your secrecy.

Per. Thus fathers think their children to beguile,

And oftentimes themselues do first repent,

When heauenly powers do frustrate their intent.

Enter Gonorill and Ragan.

Gon. I maruell, Ragan, how you can indure To see that proud pert Peat, our youngest sister, So slightly to account of vs, her elders, As if we were no better then her selfe!

We cannot have a quaynt device so soone,

Or new made fashion, of our choyce inuention;

But if she like it, she will have the same,

Or study newer to exceed vs both.

Besides, she is so nice and so demure;

So sober, courteous, modest, and precise,

That all the Court hath worke ynough to do,

To talke how she exceedeth me and you.

Ra. What should I do? would it were in my power,

To find a cure for this contagious ill:

The History of King Leir

wln 0113	Some desperate medicine must be soone applyed,
wln 0114	To dimme the glory of her mounting fame;
wln 0115	Els ere't be long, shee'le haue both prick and praise,
wln 0116	And we must be set by for working dayes.
wln 0117	Doe you not see what seuerall choyce of Suters
wln 0118	She daily hath, and of the best degree?
wln 0119	Say, amongst all, she hap to fancy one,
wln 0120	And haue a husband when as we haue none:
wln 0121	Why then, by right, to her we must giue place,
wln 0122	Though it be ne're so much to our disgrace.
wln 0123	Gon. By my virginity, rather then she shall haue
wln 0124	A husband before me,
wln 0125	Ile marry one or other in his shirt:
wln 0126	And yet I haue made halfe a graunt already
wln 0127	Of my good will vnto the King of Cornwall.
wln 0128	Ra. Sweare not so deeply (sister) here cometh my L. Skalliger, wln 0129	Something his hasty comming doth import. Enter Skal.
wln 0130	Skal. Sweet Princesses, I am glad I met you heere so luckily, wln 0131	Hauing good newes which doth concerne you both,
wln 0132	And craueth speedy expedition.
wln 0133	Ra. For Gods sake tell vs what it is, my Lord,
wln 0134	I am with child vntill you vtter it.
wln 0135	Skal. Madam, to saue your longing, this it is:
wln 0136	Your father in great secrecy to day,
wln 0137	Told me, he meanes to marry you out of hand,
wln 0138	Vnto the noble Prince of Cambria;
wln 0139	You, Madam, to the King of Cornwalls Grace:
wln 0140	Your yonger sister he would fayne bestow
wln 0141	Vpon the rich King of Hibernia:
wln 0142	But that he doubts, she hardly will consent;
wln 0143	For hitherto she ne're could fancy him.
wln 0144	If she do yeeld, why then, betweene you three,
wln 0145	He will deuide his kingdome for your dowries.
wln 0146	But yet there is a further mystery,
wln 0147	Which, so you will conceale, I will disclose.
wln 0148	Gon. What e're thou speakst to vs, kind Skalliger, wln 0149	Thinke that thou speakst it only to thy selfe.
wln 0150	Skal. He earnestly desireth for to know,

Which of you three do beare most loue to him,

And on your loues he so extremely dotes, As neuer any did, I thinke, before. He presently doth meane to send for you, To be resolu'd of this tormenting doubt: And looke, whose answere pleaseth him the best, They shall have most vnto their marriages. O that I had some pleasing Mermayds voyce, For to inchaunt his sencelesse sences with! For he supposeth that Cordella will (Striuing to go beyond you in her loue) Promise to do what euer he desires: Then will he straight enioune her for his sake, The Hibernian King in marriage for to take. This is the summe of all I have to say; Which being done, I humbly take my leaue, Not doubting but your wisdomes will foresee, What course will best vnto your good agree. Thanks, gentle Skalliger, thy kindnes vndeserued, Shall not be vnrequited, if we liue. Exit Skalliger. Now have we fit occasion offred vs. To be reueng'd vpon her vnperceyu'd. Nay, our reuenge we will inflict on her, Shall be accounted piety in vs: I will so flatter with my doting father, As he was ne're so flattred in his life. Nay, I will say, that if it be his pleasure, To match me to a begger, I will yeeld: For why, I know what euer I do say, He meanes to match me with the Cornwall King.

Ra. Ile say the like: for I am well assured; What e're I say to please the old mans mind. Who dotes, as if he were a child agayne; I shall inioy the noble Cambrian Prince: Only, to feed his humour, will []ffice, To say, I am content with any one Whom heele appoynt me; this will please him more. Then e're Apolloes musike pleased Ioue.

wln 0204	Leir. Oh, what a combat feeles my panting heart,

wln 0206	How deare my daughters are vnto my soule,

wln 0208	Ah, little do they know the deare regard,
wln 0209	Wherein I hold their future state to come:

Ye florishing branches of a Kingly stocke,
Sprung from a tree that once did flourish greene,
Whose blossomes now are nipt with Winters frost,
And pale grym death doth wayt vpon my steps,
And summons me vnto his next Assizes.
Therefore, deare daughters, as ye tender the safety
Of him that was the cause of your first being,
Resolue a doubt which much molests my mind,
Which of you three to me would proue most kind;
Which loues me most, and which at my request
Will soonest yeeld vnto their fathers hest.

Gon. I hope, my gracious father makes no doubt Of any of his daughters loue to him: Yet for my part, to shew my zeale to you, Which cannot be in windy words rehearst, I prize my loue to you at such a rate, I thinke my life inferiour to my loue. Should you iniowne me for to tye a milstone About my neck, and leape into the Sea, At your commaund I willingly would doe it: Yea, for to doe you good, I would ascend The highest Turret in all Brittany, And from the top leape headlong to the ground: Nay, more, should you appoynt me for to marry The meanest vassayle in the spacious world, Without reply I would accomplish it: In briefe, commaund what euer you desire, And if I fayle, no fauour I require.

Leir. O, how thy words reuiue my dying soule!

Cor. O, how I doe abhorre this flattery!

Leir. But what sayth Ragan to her fathers will?

Rag. O, that my simple vtterance could suffice,

To tell the true intention of my heart,

Which burnes in zeale of duty to your grace,

And neuer can be quench'd, but by desire

To shew the same in outward forwardnesse.

Oh, that there were some other mayd that durst

But make a challenge of her loue with me;

wln 0288	Doth our deare loue make you thus peremptory?
wln 0289	What, is your loue become so small to vs,
wln 0290	As that you scorne to tell vs what it is?
wln 0291	Do you loue vs, as euery child doth loue

Nor my playne meaning be misconstrued;

My toung was neuer vsde to flattery.

Gon. You were not best say I flatter: if you do,

I loue my father better then thou canst.

Cor. The prayse were great, spoke from anothers mouth:

But it should seeme your neighbours dwell far off.

Rag. Nay, here is one, that will confirme as much

As she hath sayd, both for my selfe and her.

I say, thou dost not wish my fathers good.

Cord. Deare father. —

Leir. Peace, bastard Impe, no issue of King Leir,

I will not heare thee speake one tittle more.

Call not me father, if thou loue thy life,

Nor these thy sisters once presume to name:

Looke for no helpe henceforth from me nor mine;

Shift as thou wilt, and trust vnto thy selfe:

My Kingdome will I equally deuide

'Twixt thy two sisters to their royall dowre,

And will bestow them worthy their deserts:

This done, because thou shalt not have the hope,

To have a childs part in the time to come,

I presently will dispossesse my selfe,

And set vp these vpon my princely throne.

Gon. I euer thought that pride would haue a fall.

Ra. Plaine dealing, sister: your beauty is so sheene,

You need no dowry, to make you be a Queene.

Exeunt Leir, Gonorill, Ragan.

Cord. Now whither, poore forsaken, shall I goe,

When mine owne sisters tryumph in my woe?

But vnto him which doth protect the iust,

In him will poore Cordella put her trust.

These hands shall labour, for to get my spending;

And so ile liue vntill my dayes haue ending.

Per. Oh, how I grieue, to see my Lord thus fond,

To dote so much vpon vayne flattering words.

Ah, if he but with good aduice had weyghed,

He thinks he ne're shall come at's iourneyes end. I would he had old Dedalus waxen wings, That he might flye, so I might stay behind: For e're we get to Troynouant, I see, He quite will tyre himselfe, his horse and me.

*Cornwall & Cambria looke one vpon another.

Cornwall & Cambria looke one vpon another, and start to see eche other there.

Corn. Brother of Cambria, we greet you well, As one whom here we little did expect.

Cam. Brother of Cornwall, met in happy time: I thought as much to haue met with the Souldan of Persia, As to haue met you in this place, my Lord. No doubt, it is about some great affayres, That makes you here so slenderly accompanied.

Corn. To say the truth, my Lord, it is no lesse, And for your part some hasty wind of chance

Hath blowne you hither thus vpon the sudden.

Cam. My Lord, to break off further circumstances, For at this time I cannot brooke delayes:

Tell you your reason, I will tell you mine.

Corn. In fayth content, and therefore to be briefe;

For I am sure my haste's as great as yours:

I am sent for, to come vnto King Leir,

Who by these present letters promiseth

His eldest daughter, louely Gonorill,

To me in mariage, and for present dowry,

The moity of halfe his Regiment.

The Ladies loue I long ago possest:

But vntill now I neuer had the fathers.

Cam. You tell me wonders, yet I will relate Strange newes, and henceforth we must brothers call;

Witnesse these lynes: his honourable age,

Being weary of the troubles of his Crowne,

His princely daughter Ragan will bestow

On me in mariage, with halfe his Seigniories,

Whom I would gladly haue accepted of,

With the third part, her complements are such.

Corn. If I have one halfe, and you have the other,

Then

[..]m. The hole! how meane you that? Zlood, I hope,

We shall have two holes betweene vs.

Corn. Why, the whole Kingdome.

Cam. I, that's very true.

Cor. What then is left for his third daughters dowry, Louely Cordella, whom the world admires?

Cam. Tis very strange, I know not what to thinke, Vnlesse they meane to make a Nunne of her.

Corn. 'Twere pity such rare beauty should be hid

Within the compasse of a Cloysters wall:

But howsoe're, if Leirs words proue true,

It will be good, my Lord, for me and you.

Cam. Then let vs haste, all danger to preuent,

For feare delayes doe alter his intent.

Exeunt.

Enter Gonorill and Ragan.

Gon. Sister, when did you see Cordella last,

That prety piece, that thinks none good ynough

To speake to her, because (sir-reuerence)

She hath a little beauty extraordinary?

Ra. Since time my father warnd her from his presence,

I neuer saw her, that I can remember.

God giue her ioy of her surpassing beauty;

I thinke, her dowry will be small vnough.

Gon. I have incenst my father so against her,

As he will neuer be reclaymd agayne.

Rag. I was not much behind to do the like.

Gon. Faith, sister, what moues you to beare her such good

Rag. In truth, I thinke, the same that moueth you; (will?

Because she doth surpasse vs both in beauty.

Gon. Beshrew your fingers, how right you can gesse:

I tell you true, it cuts me to the heart.

Rag. But we will keepe her low enough, I warrant,

And clip her wings for mounting vp too hye.

Gon. Who euer hath her, shall have a rich mariage of her.

Rag. She were right fit to make a Parsons wife:

For they, men say, do loue faire women well,

But you, sweet Loue, illustrious Gonorill, The Regent, and the Soueraigne of my soule, Is Cornwall welcome to your Excellency? As welcome, as Leander was to Hero, Or braue Aeneas to the Carthage Queene: So and more welcome is your Grace to me. O, may my fortune proue no worse then his, Since heavens do know, my fancy is as much. Deare Ragan, say, if welcome vnto thee, All welcomes else will little comfort me. As gold is welcome to the couetous eye, As sleepe is welcome to the Traueller, As is fresh water to sea-beaten men, Or movetned showres vnto the parched ground, Or any thing more welcomer then this, So and more welcome louely Morgan is. Leir. What resteth then, but that we consummate, The celebration of these nuptiall Rites? My Kingdome I do equally deuide. Princes, draw lots, and take your chaunce as falles.

Then they draw lots.

These I resigne as freely vnto you,
As earst by true succession they were mine.
And here I do freely dispossesse my selfe,
And make you two my true adopted heyres:
My selfe will soiorne with my sonne of Cornwall,
And take me to my prayers and my beades.
I know, my daughter Ragan will be sorry,
Because I do not spend my dayes with her:
Would I were able to be with both at once;
They are the kindest Gyrles in Christendome.

Of Cornwall and of Cambria, with my sisters.

King. Hath he given nothing to your louely selfe?

Cor. He lou'd me not, & therfore gaue me nothing,

Only because I could not flatter him:

And in this day of tryumph to my sisters,

Doth Fortune tryumph in my ouerthrow.

King. Sweet Lady, say there should come a King,

As good as eyther of your sisters husbands,

To craue your loue, would you accept of him?

Cor. Oh, doe not mocke with those in misery,

Nor do not think, though fortune haue the power,

To spoyle mine honour, and debase my state,

That she hath any interest in my mind:

For if the greatest Monarch on the earth,

Should sue to me in this extremity,

Except my heart could loue, and heart could like,

Better then any that I euer saw,

His great estate no more should moue my mind,

Then mountaynes moue by blast of euery wind.

King. Think not, sweet Nymph, tis holy Palmers guise,

To grieued soules fresh torments to deuise:

Therefore in witnesse of my true intent,

Let heauen and earth beare record of my words:

There is a young and lusty Gallian King,

So like to me, as I am to my selfe,

That earnestly doth craue to haue thy loue,

Oh liue to adde new torments to my griefe: Why didst thou thus intrap me vnawares? Ah Palmer, my estate doth not befit A kingly mariage, as the case now stands. Whilome when as I liu'd in honours height, A Prince perhaps might postulate my loue: Now misery, dishonour and disgrace, Hath light on me, and quite reuerst the case. Thy King will hold thee wise, if thou surcease The sute, whereas no dowry will insue. Then be aduised, Palmer, what to do: Cease for thy King, seeke for thy selfe to woo. King. Your birth's too high for any, but a King. My mind is low ynough to loue a Palmer, Cor. Rather then any King vpon the earth. King. O, but you neuer can indure their life,

Cor. O yes, I can, and happy if I might:
Ile hold thy Palmers staffe within my hand,
And thinke it is the Scepter of a Queene.
Sometime ile set thy Bonnet on my head,
And thinke I weare a rich imperiall Crowne.
Sometime ile helpe thee in thy holy prayers,
And thinke I am with thee in Paradise.
Thus ile mock fortune, as she mocketh me,
And neuer will my louely choyce repent:
For hauing thee, I shall haue all content.

Which is so straight and full of penury.

King. 'Twere sin to hold her longer in suspence, Since that my soule hath vow'd she shall be mine. Ah, deare Cordella, cordiall to my heart, I am no Palmer, as I seeme to be, But hither come in this vnknowne disguise, To view th'admired beauty of those eyes. I am the King of Gallia, gentle mayd, (Although thus slenderly accompanied) And yet thy vassayle by imperious Loue, And sworne to serue thee euerlastingly.

Cor. What e're you be, of high or low discent,

All's one to me, I do request but this: That as I am, you will accept of me,

And I will haue you whatsoe're you be:

Yet well I know, you come of royall race,

I see such sparks of honour in your face:

Mum. Haue Palmer's weeds such power to win fayre Ladies?

Fayth, then I hope the next that falles is myne:

Vpon condition I no worse might speed,

I would for euer weare a Palmers weed.

I like an honest and playne dealing wench,

That sweares (without exceptions) I will have you.

These foppets, that know not whether to loue a man or no, except they first go aske their mothers leaue, by this hand, I hate them ten tymes worse then poyson.

King. What resteth then our happinesse to procure?

Mum. Fayth, go to Church, to make the matter sure.

King. It shall be so, because the world shall say,

King Leirs three daughters were wedded in one day:

The celebration of this happy chaunce,

We will deferre, vntill we come to Fraunce.

Mum. I like the wooing, that's not long a doing.

Well, for her sake, I know what I know:

Ile neuer marry whilest I liue,

Except I have one of these Brittish Ladyes,

My humour is alienated from the mayds of Fraunce.

Enter Perillus solus.

Per. The King hath dispossest himselfe of all,

Those to aduaunce, which scarce will give him thanks:

His youngest daughter he hath turnd away,

And no man knowes what is become of her.

He soiournes now in Cornwall with the eldest,

Who flattred him, vntill she did obtayne

That at his hands, which now she doth possess,

And now she sees hee hath no more to give,

It grieues her heart to see her father liue.

Oh, whom should man trust in this wicked age,

When children thus against their parents rage?

But he, the myrrour of mild patience,

Puts vp all wrongs, and neuer giues reply: Yet shames she not in most opprobrious sort, To call him foole and doterd to his face, And sets her Parasites of purpose oft, In scoffing wise to offer him disgrace. Oh yron age! O times! O monstrous, vilde, When parents are contemned of the child! His pension she hath halfe restrain'd from him, And will, e're long, the other halfe, I feare: For she thinks nothing is bestowde in vayne, But that which doth her fathers life maintayne. Trust not alliance; but trust strangers rather. Since daughters proue disloyall to the father. Well. I will counsell him the best I can: Would I were able to redresse his wrong. I prithy, Skalliger, tell me what thou thinkst: Could any woman of our dignity Endure such guips and peremptory taunts, As I do daily from my doting father? Doth't not suffice that I him keepe of almes, Who is not able for to keepe himselfe? But as if he were our better, he should thinke To check and snap me vp at euery word. I cannot make me a new fashioned gowne, And set it forth with more then common cost; But his old doting doltish withered wit, Is sure to giue a sencelesse check for it. I cannot make a banquet extraordinary, To grace my selfe, and spread my name abroad, But he, old foole, is captious by and by, And sayth, the cost would well suffice for twice.

Iudge then, I pray, what reason ist, that I

And that my sister Ragan should go free,

To whom he gaue as much, as vnto me?

Should stand alone charg'd with his vaine expence,

Leir. Ah, good my friend, how ill art thou aduisde, For to consort with miserable men:
Go learne to flatter, where thou mayst in time
Get fauour 'mongst the mighty, and so clyme:

For now I am so poore and full of want.

Leir. Oh, did I euer dispossesse my selfe, And giue thee halfe my Kingdome in good will?

Per. Alas, my Lord, there were no reason, why

You should have such a thought, to give it me.

Leir. Nay, if thou talke of reason, then be mute;

For with good reason I can thee confute.

If they, which first by natures sacred law,

Do owe to me the tribute of their lives;

If they to whom I alwayes haue bin kinde,

And bountifull beyond comparison;

If they, for whom I haue vndone my selfe,

And brought my age vnto this extreme want,

Do now reject, contemne, despise, abhor me, What reason moueth thee to sorrow for me?

Per. Where reason fayles, let teares confirme my loue,

And speake how much your passions do me moue.

Gon. My honest friend, whither away so fast?

Mes. To Cambria, Madam, with letters fro the king.

Gon. To whom?

Mess. Vnto your father, if he be there.

Gon. Let me see them.

She opens them.

Mess. Madam, I hope your Grace will stand

Betweene me and my neck-verse, if I be

Calld in question, for opening the Kings letters.

Gon. 'Twas was I that opened them, it was not thou.

Mes. I, but you need not care: and so must I,

A hansome man, be quickly trust vp,

And when a man's hang'd, all the world cannot saue him,

Gon. He that hangs thee, were better hang his father,

Or that but hurts thee in the least degree.

I tell thee, we make great account of thee.

Mes. I am o're-ioy'd, I surfet of sweet words:

Kind Queene, had I a hundred liues, I would Spend ninety nyne of them for you, for that word.

Gon I, but thou wouldst keepe one life still,

And that's as many as thou art like to haue.

Mes. Gon. In token of further imployment, take that.

Flings him a purse.

Mes. A strong Bond, a firme Obligation, good in law, good in law: if I keepe not the condition, let my necke be the forfeyture of my negligence.

Gon. O, thou art a fit man for my purpose.

Mes. Commend me not, sweet Queene, before you try me. As my deserts are, so do think of me.

Gon. Well sayd, then this is thy tryall: Instead of carrying the Kings letters to my father, carry thou these letters to my sister, which contayne matter quite contrary to the other: there shal she be giuen to vnderstand, that my father hath detracted her, giuen out slaundrous speaches against her; and that hee hath most intollerably abused me, set my Lord and me at variance, and made mutinyes amongst the commons.

These things (although it be not so)

Yet thou must affirme them to be true,

With othes and protestations as will serue,

To drive my sister out of love with him,

And cause my will accomplished to be.

This do, thou winst my fauour for euer,

And makest a hye way of preferment to thee

And all thy friends.

Mess. It sufficeth, conceyt it is already done:

I will so toung-whip him, that I will Leaues a Cony, when she pulls off his skin.

Gon. Yet there is a further matter.

Mes. I thirst to heare it.

Gon. If my sister thinketh conuenient, as my letters importeth, to make him away, hast thou the heart to effect it?

Mess. Few words are best in so small a matter: These are but trifles. By this booke I will.

Leir. Nay, rest on me, kind friend, and stay thy selfe, Thou art as old as I, but more kind.

Per. Ah, good my Lord, it ill befits, that I Should leane vpon the person of a King.

Leir. But it fits worse, that I should bring thee forth,

That had no cause to come along with me,

Through these vncouth paths, and tirefull wayes,

And neuer ease thy faynting limmes a whit.

Thou hast left all, I, all to come with me,

And I, for all, haue nought to guerdon thee.

Per. Cease, good my Lord, to aggrauate my woes,

With these kind words, which cuts my heart in two,

To think your will should want the power to do.

Leir. Cease, good Perillus, for to call me Lord,

And think me but the shaddow of my selfe.

Per. That honourable title will I giue,

Vnto my Lord, so long as I do liue.

Oh, be of comfort; for I see the place

Whereas your daughter keeps her residence.

And loe, in happy time the Cambrian Prince

Is here arriu'd, to gratify our comming.

Enter the Prince of Cambria, Ragan and Nobles: looke vpon them, and whisper together.

Leir. Were I best speak, or sit me downe and dye?

I am asham'd to tell this heavy tale.

Per. Then let me tell it, if you please, my Lord:

Tis shame for them that were the cause thereof.

Cam. What two old men are those that seeme so sad?

Me thinks, I should remember well their lookes.

Rag. No, I mistake not, sure it is my father:

I must dissemble kindnesse now of force.

She runneth to him, and kneeles downe, saying:

Father, I bid you welcome, full of griefe,

To see your Grace vsde thus vnworthily,

And ill befitting for your reuerend age,

To come on foot a iourney so indurable.

Oh, what disaster chaunce hath bin the cause,

To make your cheeks so hollow, spare and leane?

and his three daughters.

Ile sit me downe, and read vntill she come.

Pull out a booke and sit downe.

Per. Sheele not be long, I warrant you, my Lord:

But say, a couple of these they call good fellowes,

Should step out of a hedge, and set vpon vs,

We were in good case for to answere them.

Leir. 'Twere not for vs to stand vpon our hands.

Per. I feare, we scant should stand vpon our legs.

But how should we do to defend our selues?

Leir. Euen pray to God, to blesse vs frō their hands:

For feruent prayer much ill hap withstands.

Per. Ile sit and pray with you for company:

Yet was I ne're so heavy in my life.

They fall both asleepe.

Enter the Messenger or murtherer with two daggers in his hands.

Mess. Were it not a mad iest, if two or three of my profession should meet me, and lay me downe in a ditch, and play robbe thiefe with me, & perforce take my gold away from me, whilest I act this stratagem, and by this meanes the gray beards should escape? Fayth, when I were at liberty againe, I would make no more to do, but go to the next tree, and there hang my selfe.

See them and start.

But stay, me thinks, my youthes are here already,

And with pure zeale haue prayed themselues asleepe.

I thinke, they know to what intent they came,

And are prouided for another world.

He takes their bookes away.

Now could I stab them brauely, while they sleepe,

And in a maner put them to no payne;

And doing so, I shewed them mighty friendship:

For feare of death is worse then death it selfe.

But that my sweet Queene will'd me for to shew

This letter to them, ere I did the deed.

Masse, they begin to stirre: ile stand aside;

So shall I come vpon them vnawares.

They wake and rise.

Leir. I maruell, that my daughter stayes so long.

wln 1479 Per. I feare, we did mistake the place, my Lord. wln 1480 Leir. God graunt we do not miscarry in the place: wln 1481 I had a short nap, but so full of dread, wln 1482 As much amazeth me to think thereof. wln 1483 Feare not, my Lord, dreames are but fantasies, wln 1484 And slight imaginations of the brayne. wln 1485 Perswade him so; but ile make him and you Mes. wln 1486 Confesse, that dreames do often proue too true. wln 1487 I pray, my Lord, what was the effect of it? Per. wln 1488 I may go neere to gesse what it pretends. wln 1489 Leaue that to me, I will expound the dreame. Mes. wln 1490 Leir. Me thought, my daughters, Gonorill & Ragan, wln 1491 Stood both before me with such grim aspects, wln 1492 Eche brandishing a Faulchion in their hand, wln 1493 Ready to lop a lymme off where it fell, wln 1494 And in their other hands a naked poynyard, wln 1495 Wherwith they stabd me in a hundred places, wln 1496 And to their thinking left me there for dead: wln 1497 But then my youngest daughter, fayre Cordella, wln 1498 Came with a boxe of Balsome in her hand, wln 1499 And powred it into my bleeding wounds, By whose good meanes I was recourred well, wln 1500 wln 1501 In perfit health, as earst I was before: wln 1502 And with the feare of this I did awake. wln 1503 And yet for feare my feeble ioynts do quake. wln 1504 Mes. Deliuer vs. good Lord, from such as he. wln 1509 Mes. You should have prayed before, while it was time, wln 1510 And then perhaps, you might have scapt my hands: wln 1511 But you, like faithfull watch-men, fell asleepe, wln 1512 The whilst I came and tooke your Halberds from you. wln 1513 Shew their Bookes. wln 1514 And now you want your weapons of defence, wln 1515 How have you any hope to be delivered? wln 1516 This comes, because you have no better stay, wln 1555	So shall you saue me labour for to do it,

wln 1556	And proue your selues true old men of your words.
wln 1557	And here I vow in sight of all the world,
wln 1558	I ne're will trouble you whilst I liue agayne.
wln 1559	Leir. Affright vs not with terrour, good my friend,
wln 1560	Nor strike such feare into our aged hearts.
wln 1561	Play not the Cat, which dallieth with the mouse;
wln 1562	And on a sudden maketh her a pray:
wln 1563	But if thou art markt for the man of death
wln 1564	To me and to my Damion , tell me playne,
wln 1565	That we may be prepared for the stroke,
wln 1566	And make our selues fit for the world to come.
wln 1567	Mes. I am the last of any mortall race,
wln 1568	That ere your eyes are likely to behold,
wln 1569	And hither sent of purpose to this place,
wln 1570	To giue a finall period to your dayes,
wln 1571	Which are so wicked, and haue liued so long,
wln 1572	That your owne children seeke to short your life.
wln 1573	Leir . Camst thou from France, of purpose to do this?
wln 1574	Mes. From France? zoones, do I looke like a Frenchman?
wln 1575	Sure I haue not mine owne face on; some body hath chang'd
wln 1576	faces with me, and I know not of it: But I am sure, my apparell
wln 1577	is all English. Sirra, what meanest thou to aske that question?
wln 1578	I could spoyle the fashion o this face for anger. A French face!
wln 1579	Leir . Because my daughter, whom I haue offended, wln 1580	And at whose hands I haue deseru'd as ill,
wln 1581	As euer any father did of child,
wln 1582	Is Queene of Fraunce, no thanks at all to me,
wln 1583	But vnto God, who my iniustice see.
wln 1584	If it be so, that shee doth seeke reuenge,
wln 1585	As with good reason she may justly do,
wln 1586	I will most willingly resigne my life,
wln 1587	A sacrifice to mittigate her ire:
wln 1588	I neuer will intreat thee to forgiue,
wln 1589	Because I am vnworthy for to liue.
wln 1590	Therefore speake soone, & I will soone make speed:
wln 1591	Whether Cordella will'd thee do this deed?
wln 1592	Mes. As I am a perfit gentleman, thou speakst French to me:

and his three daughters.

wln 1593	I neuer heard Cordellaes name before,
wln 1594	Nor neuer was in Fraunce in all my life:
wln 1595	I neuer knew thou hadst a daughter there,
wln 1596	To whom thou didst proue so vnkind a churle:
wln 1597	But thy owne toung declares that thou hast bin
wln 1598	A vyle old wretch, and full of heynous sin.
wln 1599	Leir. Ah no, my friend, thou art deceyued much:
wln 1600	For her except, whom I confesse I wrongd,
wln 1601	Through doting frenzy, and o're-ielous loue.
wln 1602	There liues not any vnder heauens bright eye,
wln 1603	That can conuict me of impiety.
wln 1604	And therfore sure thou dost mistake the marke:
wln 1605	For I am in true peace with all the world.
wln 1606	Mes. You are the fitter for the King of heauen:
wln 1607	And therefore, for to rid thee of suspence,
wln 1608	Know thou, the Queenes of Cambria and Cornwall,
wln 1609	Thy owne two daughters, Gonorill and Ragan,
wln 1610	Appoynted me to massacre thee here.
wln 1611	Why wouldst thou then perswade me, that thou art
wln 1612	In charity with all the world? but now
wln 1613	When thy owne issue hold thee in such hate,
wln 1614	That they have hyred me t'abbridge thy fate,
wln 1615	Oh, fy vpon such vyle dissembling breath,
wln 1616	That would deceyue, euen at the poynt of death.
wln 1617	Per. Am I awake, or is it but a dreame?
wln 1618	Mes. Feare nothing, man, thou art but in a dreame,
wln 1619	And thou shalt neuer wake vntill doomes day,
wln 1620	By then, I hope, thou wilt haue slept ynough.
wln 1621	Leir. Yet, gentle friend, graunt one thing ere I die.
wln 1622	Mes. Ile graunt you any thing, except your liues.
wln 1623	Leir. Oh, but assure me by some certayne token,
wln 1624	That my two daughters hyred thee to this deed:
wln 1625	If I were once resolu'd of that, then I
wln 1626	Would wish no longer life, but craue to dye.
wln 1627	Mes. That to be true, in sight of heauen I sweare.
wln 1628	Leir. Sweare not by heauen, for feare of punishmēt:
wln 1629	The heauens are guiltlesse of such haynous acts.
wln 1630	Mes. I sweare by earth, the mother of vs all.

and his three daughters.

1	Mum. Well, if I once see Brittayne agayne,
2	I haue sworne, ile ne're come home without my wench,
3	And ile not be forsworne,
4	Ile rather neuer come home while I liue.
5	Cor. Are you sure, Mumford, she is a mayd still?
6	Mum. Nay, ile not sweare she is a mayd, but she goes for one:
7	I'le take her at all aduentures, if I can get her.
8	Cord. I, thats well put in.
9	Mum. Well put in? nay, it was ill put in; for had it
0	Bin as well put in, as ere I put in, in my dayes,
1	I would have made her follow me to Fraunce.
2	Cor. Nay, you'd haue bin so kind, as take her with you,
3	Or else, were I as she,
4	I would have bin so louing, as ide stay behind you:
5	Yet I must confesse, you are a very proper man,
6	And able to make a wench do more then she would do.
7	Mum. Well, I have a payre of slops for the nonce,
8	Will hold all your mocks.
9	King. Nay, we see you have a hansome hose.
0	Cor. I, and of the newest fashion.
1	Mum. More bobs, more: put them in still,
2	They'll serue instead of bumbast, yet put not in too many,
3	lest the seames crack, and they fly out amongst you againe:
4	you must not think to outface me so easly in my mistris quarrel,
5	who if I see once agayne, ten teame of horses shall
6	not draw me away, till I haue full and whole possession.
7	King. I, but one teame and a cart will serue the turne.
8	Cor. Not only for him, but also for his wench.
9	Mum: Well, you are two to one, ile giue you ouer:
0	And since I see you so pleasantly disposed,
1	Which indeed is but seldome seene, ile clayme
2	A promise of you, which you shall not deny me:
3	For promise is debt, & by this hand you promisd it me.
4	Therefore you owe it me, and you shall pay it me,
5	Or ile sue you vpon an action of vnkindnesse.

Fayth, nothing but this,

That the next fayre weather, which is very now,

You would go in progresse downe to the sea side, Which is very neere.

King. Fayth, in this motion I will ioyne with thee, And be a mediator to my Queene. Prithy, my Loue, let this m[:-]ch go forward, My mind foretels, 'twill be a lucky voyage.

Cor. Entreaty needs not, where you may comaund, So you be pleasde, I am right well content: Yet, as the Sea I much desire to see; So am I most vnwilling to be seene.

King. Weele go disguised, all vnknowne to any. Cor. Howsoeuer you make one, ile make another.

Mum. and I the third: oh, I am ouer-ioyed! See what loue is, which getteth with a word, What all the world besides could ne're obtayne! But what disguises shall we haue, my Lord?

King. Fayth thus: my Queene & I wil be disguisde, Like a playne country couple, and you shall be Roger Our man, and wayt vpon vs: or if you will, You shall go first, and we will wayt on you.

Mum. 'Twere more then time; this deuice is excellent. Come let vs about it.

Enter Cambria and Ragan, with Nobles.

Cam. What strange mischance or vnexpected hap Hath thus depriu'd vs of our fathers presence?
Can no man tell vs what's become of him,
With whom we did conuerse not two dayes since?
My Lords, let euery where light-horse be sent,
To scoure about through all our Regiment.
Dispatch a Poste immediately to Cornwall,
To see if any newes be of him there;
My selfe will make a strickt inquiry here,
And all about our Cities neere at hand,
Till certayne newes of his abode be brought.

Rag. All sorrow is but counterfet to mine

O, ne're was heard so strange a misaduenture, A thing so far beyond the reach of sence, Since no mans reason in the cause can enter. What hath remou'd my father thus from hence? O, I do feare some charme or inuocation Of wicked spirits, or infernall fiends, Stird by Cordella, moues this innouation, And brings my father timelesse to his end. But might I know, that the detested Witch Were certayne cause of this vncertayne ill, Myselfe to Fraunce would go in some disguise, And with these navles scratch out her hatefull eyes: For since I am depriued of my father, I loath my life, and wish my death the rather. The heavens are just, and hate impiety, And will (no doubt) reueale such haynous crimes: Censure not any, till you know the right:

Let him be Iudge, that bringeth truth to light.

O, but my griefe, like to a swelling tyde, Exceeds the bounds of common patience: Nor can I moderate my toung so much, To conceale them, whom I hold in suspect.

Cam. This matter shall be sifted: if it be she.

A thousand Fraunces shall not harbour her.

Enter the Gallian Ambassador.

All happinesse vnto the Cambrian King. Am.

I came from Gallia, vnto Cornwall sent,

With letters to your honourable father,

Whom there not finding, as I did expect,

I was directed hither to repayre.

Frenchman, what is thy message to my father? Rag.

very faintly.

Leir. Ah, my Perillus, now I see we both

Shall end our dayes in this vntrustfull soyle.

Oh, I do faint for want of sustenance:

And thou, I know, in little better case.

No gentle tree affords one taste of fruit,

To comfort vs, vntill we meet with men:

No lucky path conducts our lucklesse steps

Vnto a place where any comfort dwels.

Sweet rest betyde vnto our happy soules:

For here I see our bodies must have end.

The History of King Leir

O, but some meat, some meat: do you not see. How neere they are to death for want of food? Lord, which didst help they seruants at their need, Or now or neuer send vs helpe with speed. Oh comfort, comfort! yonder is a banquet, And men and women, my Lord: be of good cheare; For I see comfort comming very neere. O my Lord, a banquet, and men and women! O, let kind pity mollify their hearts, Leir. That they may helpe vs in our great extreames. God saue you, friends; & if this blessed banquet Affordeth any food or sustenance. Euen for his sake that saued vs all from death, Vouchsafe to saue vs from the gripe of famine. She bringeth Here father, sit and eat, here, sit & drink: him to the table And would it were far better for your sakes. Perillus takes Leir by the hand to the table. Ile giue you thanks anon: my friend doth faynt, Per. And needeth present comfort. Leir drinks. Mum. I warrant, he ne're stayes to say grace: O, theres no sauce to a good stomake. Per. The blessed God of heaven hath thought vpon vs. Leir. The thanks be his, and these kind courteous folke, They eat hungerly, Leir By whose humanity we are preserued. Cor. And may that draught be vnto him, as was drinkes. That which old Eson dranke, which did renue His withered age, and made him young againe. And may that meat be vnto him, as was That which Elias ate, in strength whereof He walked fourty dayes, and neuer faynted. Shall I conceale me longer from my father? Or shall I manifest my selfe to him? Forbeare a while, vntill his strength returne,

Lest being ouer-ioved with seeing thee,

His poore weake sences should forsake their office.

And so our c[··]se of ioy be turnd to sorrow.

Per. What chere, my Lord? how do you feele your selfe?

Me thinks, I neuer ate such sauory meat:

It is as pleasant as the blessed Manna,

That

and his three daughters.

That raynd from heauen amongst the Israelites: It hath recall'd my spirits home agayne, And made me fresh, as earst I was before. But how shall we congratulate their kindnesse? Infayth, I know not how sufficiently; But the best meane that I can think on, is this: Ile offer them my dublet in requitall; For we have nothing else to spare. Nay, stay, Perillus, for they shall have mine. Leir. Pardon, my Lord, I sweare they shall have mine. Per. Perillus proffers his dublet: they will not take it. Ah, who would think such kindnes should remayne Leir. Among such strange and vnacquainted men: And that such hate should harbour in the brest Of those, which have occasion to be best? Ah, good old father, tell to me thy griefe, Ile sorrow with thee, if not adde reliefe. Leir. Ah, good young daughter, I may call thee so; For thou art like a daughter I did owe. Do you not owe her still? what, is she dead? Cor. No, God forbid: but all my interest's gone, Leir. By shewing my selfe too much vnnaturall: So have I lost the title of a father, and may be call'd a stranger to her rather. Your title's good still; for tis alwayes knowne, Cor. A man may do as him list with his owne. But have you but one daughter then in all? Yes, I have more by two, then would I had. Leir. O, say not so, but rather see the end: Cor. They that are bad, may have the grace to mend: But how have they offended you so much? If from the first I should relate the cause, 'Twould make a heart of Adamant to weepe; And thou, poore soule, kind-hearted as thou art, Dost weepe already, ere I do begin. Cor. For Gods loue tell it, and when you have done, Ile tell the reason why I weepe so soone. Then know this first, I am a Brittayne borne, Leir.

wln 2244 And though I say it, of beauty they were sped: wln 2245 Especially the youngest of the three, wln 2246 For her perfections hardly matcht could be: wln 2247 On these I doted with a ielous loue. wln 2248 And thought to try which of them lou'd me best, wln 2249 By asking them, which would do most for me? wln 2250 The first and second flattred me with words, wln 2251 And vowd they lou'd me better then their liues: wln 2252 The youngest sayd, she loued me as a child wln 2253 Might do: her answere I esteem'd most vild, wln 2254 And presently in an outragious mood, wln 2255 I turnd her from me to go sinke or swym: wln 2256 And all I had, euen to the very clothes, wln 2257 I gaue in dowry with the other two: wln 2258 And she that best deseru'd the greatest share, wln 2259 I gaue her nothing, but disgrace and care. wln 2260 Now mark the sequell: When I had done thus, wln 2261 I soiourned in my eldest daughters house, wln 2262 Where for a time I was intreated well, wln 2263 And liu'd in state sufficing my content: wln 2264 But euery day her kindnesse did grow cold, wln 2265 Which I with patience put vp well ynough, wln 2266 And seemed not to see the things I saw: wln 2267 But at the last she grew so far incenst wln 2268 With moody fury, and with causlesse hate. wln 2269 That in most vild and contumelious termes, wln 2270 She bade me pack, and harbour some where else. wln 2271 Then was I fayne for refuge to repayre wln 2272 Vnto my other daughter for reliefe, wln 2273 Who gaue me pleasing and most courteous words: wln 2274 But in her actions shewed her selfe so sore, wln 2275 As neuer any daughter did before: wln 2276 She prayd me in a morning out betime, wln 2277 To go to a thicket two miles from the Court, wln 2278 Poynting that there she would come talke with me: wln 2279 There she had set a shaghayrd murdring wretch, wln 2280 To massacre my honest friend and me. wln 2281 Then judge your selfe, although my tale be briefe, wln 2282 If euer man had greater cause of griefe.

wln 2365	I ne're set eye vpon the peasant since:
wln 2366	O, could I get him for to make him sure, My doubts would cease, and I should rest secure.
wln 2367	But if the old men, with perswasiue words,
wln 2368	Haue sau'd their liues, and made him to relent;
wln 2369	Then are they fled vnto the Court of Fraunce,
wln 2370	And like a Trumpet manifest my shame.
wln 2371	A shame on these white-liuerd slaues, say I,
wln 2372	That with fayre words so soone are ouercome.
wln 2373	O God, that I had bin but made a man;
wln 2374	Or that my strength were equal with my will!
wln 2375	These foolish men are nothing but meere pity,
wln 2376	And melt as butter doth against the Sun.
wln 2377	Why should they have preeminence over vs,
wln 2378	Since we are creatures of more braue resolue?

wln 2400 That we shall march with conquest where we go. wln 2401 My selfe will be as forward as the first, wln 2402 And step by step march with the hardiest wight: wln 2403 And not the meanest souldier in our Campe wln 2404 Shall be in danger, but ile second him. wln 2405 To you, my Lord, we give the whole commaund wln 2406 Of all the army, next vnto our selfe, wln 2407 Not doubting of you, but you will extend wln 2408 Your wonted valour in this needfull case, wln 2409 Encouraging the rest to do the like, wln 2410 By your approved magnanimity. wln 2411 Mum. Then what should more perswasion need to those, wln 2431 That rather wish to deale, then heare of blowes? wln 2432 Let's to our ships, and if that God permit, wln 2433 In foure houres sayle, I hope we shall be there. wln 2434 And in fiue houres more, I make no doubt, wln 2435 But we shall bring our wish'd desires about. Exeunt wln 2436 Enter a Captayne of the watch, and two watchmen. wln 2437 My honest friends, it is your turne to night, wln 2438 To watch in this place, neere about the Beacon.

The History of King Leir

Alarum, with men and women halfe naked: Enter two Captaynes without dublets, with swords.

1. Cap. Where are these villaines that were set to watch,

And fire the Beacon, if occasion seru'd,

That thus have suffred vs to be surprisde,

And neuer giuen notice to the towne?

We are betrayd, and quite deuoyd of hope,

By any meanes to fortify our selues.

- 2. Cap. Tis ten to one the peasants are o'recome with drinke and sleep, and so neglect their charge.
- 1. Cap. A whirl-wind carry them quick to a whirl-poole, That there the slaues may drinke their bellies full.
 - 2. Cap. This tis, to have the Beacon so neere the Ale-house. Enter the watchmen drunke, with each a pot.
 - 1. Cap. Out on ye, villaynes, whither run you now?
 - 1. Wat. To fire the towne, and call vp the Beacon.
 - 2 Wat. No, no, sir, to fire the Beacon. He drinkes.
 - 2. Cap. What, with a pot of ale, you drunken Rogues?
 - 1. Cap. You'l fire the Beacon, when the towne is lost:

Ile teach you how to tend your office better. draw to stab them.

Enter Mumford, Captaynes run away.

Mum. Yeeld, yeeld, yeeld.

He kicks downe their pots.

Exit.

1. Wat. Reele? no, we do not reele:

You may lacke a pot of Ale ere you dye.

Mum. But in meane space, I answer, you want none.

Wel, theres no dealing with you, y'are tall men, & wel weapod,

I would there were no worse then you in the towne.

- 2. Wat. A speaks like an honest man, my cholers past already. Come, neighbour, let's go.
- 1. Wat. Nay, first let's see and we can stand. Exeunt. Alarum, excursions, Mumford after them, and some halfe naked, Enter the Gallian King, Leir, Mumford, Cordella, Perillus, and souldiers, with the chiefe of the towne bound.

King. Feare not, my friends, you shall receyue no hurt,

If you'l subscribe vnto your lawfull King,

And quite reuoke your fealty from Cambria,

And from aspiring Cornwall too, whose wives

Haue practisde treason 'gainst their fathers life.

Wee come in iustice of your wronged King,

wln 2517	And do intend no harme at all to you,
wln 2518	So you submit vnto your lawfull King.
wln 2519	Leir . Kind Countrymen, it grieues me, that perforce, wln 2520	I am constraind to vse extremities.
wln 2521	Noble. Long haue you here bin lookt for, good my Lord,
wln 2522	And wish'd for by a generall consent:
wln 2523	And had we known your Highnesse had arrived,
wln 2524	We had not made resistance to your Grace:
wln 2525	And now, my gracious Lord, you need not doubt,
wln 2526	But all the Country will yeeld presently,
wln 2527	Which since your absence haue bin greatly tax'd,
wln 2528	For to maintayne their ouerswelling pride.
wln 2529	Weele presently send word to all our friends;
wln 2530	When they have notice, they will come apace.
wln 2531	Leir. Thanks, louing subjects; and thanks, worthy son,
wln 2532	Thanks, my kind daughter, thanks to you, my Lord,
wln 2533	Who willingly aduentured haue your blood,
wln 2534	(Without desert) to do me so much good.
wln 2535	Mum. O, say not so:
wln 2536	I haue bin much beholding to your Grace:
wln 2537	I must confesse, I haue bin in some skirmishes, wln 2538	But I was neuer in the like to this:
wln 2539	For where I was wont to meet with armed men,
wln 2540	I was now incountred with naked women,
wln 2541	Cord. We that are feeble, and want vse of Armes, wln 2542	Will pray to God, to sheeld you from all harmes.
wln 2543	Leir . The while your hands do manage ceaselesse toyle, wln 2544	Our hearts shall pray, the foes may have the foyle.
wln 2545	Per. Weele fast and pray, whilst you for vs do fight,
wln 2546	That victory may prosecute the right.
wln 2547	King. Me thinks, your words do amplify (my friends)
wln 2548	And adde fresh vigor to my willing limmes:	Drum.
wln 2549	But harke, I heare the aduerse Drum approch.
wln 2550	God and our right, Saint Denis, and Saint George,
wln 2551	Enter Cornwall, Cambria, Gonorill, Ragan, and the army.
wln 2552	Corn. Presumptuous King of Gawles, how darest thou
wln 2553	Presume to enter on our Brittish shore?
wln 2554	And we are then that to take a contact was a sufferior wln 2554 wln 2555 And more then that, to take our townes perforce, And draw our subjects hearts from their true King? Be

The History of King Leir

Be sute to buy it at as deare a price,

As ere you bought presumption in your liues.

King. Ore-daring Cornwall, know, we came in right,

And iust reuengement of the wronged King,

Whose daughters there, fell vipers as they are,

Haue sought to murder and depriue of life:

But God protected him from all their spight,

And we are come in iustice of his right.

Cam. Nor he nor thou haue any interest here,

But what you win and purchase with the sword.

Thy slaunders to our noble vertuous Queenes,

Wee'l in the battell thrust them down thy throte,

Except for feare of our reuenging hands,

Thou flye to sea, as not secure on lands.

Mum. Welshman, ile so ferrit you ere night for that word,

That you shall have no mind to crake so wel this twelvemonth.

Gon. They lye, that say, we sought our fathers death.

Rag. Tis meerely forged for a colours sake,

To set a glosse on your inuasion.

Me thinks, an old man ready for to dye,

Should be asham'd to broache so foule a lye.

Cord. Fy, shamelesse sister, so deuoyd of grace,

To call our father lyer to his face.

Gon. Peace (Puritan) dissembling hypocrite,

Which art so good, that thou wilt proue stark naught:

Anon, when as I have you in my fingers,

Ile make you wish your selfe in Purgatory.

Per. Nay, peace thou monster, shame vnto thy sexe:

Thou fiend in likenesse of a humane creature.

Rag. I neuer heard a fouler spoken man.

Leir. Out on thee, viper, scum, filthy parricide,

More odious to my sight then is a Toade.

Knowest thou these letters? She snatches them & teares them.

Rag. Think you to outface me with your paltry scrowles?

You come to drive my husband from his right,

Vnder the colour of a forged letter.

Leir. Who euer heard the like impiety?

Per. You are our debtour of more patience:

We were more patient when we stayd for you,

Within

sig: I4r and his three daughters. wln 2595 Within the thicket two long hours and more. wln 2596 What houres? what thicket? Rag. wln 2597 Per. There, where you sent your seruant with your letters, wln 2598 Seald with your hand, to send vs both to heaven, wln 2599 Where, as I thinke, you neuer meane to come. wln 2600 Alas, you are growne a child agayne with age, Rag. wln 2601 Or else your sences dote for want of sleepe. wln 2602 Indeed you made vs rise betimes, you know, wln 2603 Yet had a care we should sleepe where you bade vs stay, wln 2604 But neuer wake more till the latter day. wln 2605 Peace, peace, old fellow, thou art sleepy still. Gon. wln 2606 Fayth, and if you reason till to morrow. Mum. wln 2607 You get no other answere at their hands. wln 2608 Tis pitty two such good faces wln 2609 Should have so little grace betweene them. wln 2610 Well, let vs see if their husbands with their hands, wln 2611 Can do as much, as they do with their toungs. wln 2612 I, with their swords they'l make your toung vnsay Cam. wln 2613 What they have sayd, or else they'l cut them out. wln 2614 Too't, gallants, too't, let's not stand brawling thus. King. wln 2615 Exeunt both armyes. wln 2616 Sound alarum: excursions. Mumford must chase Cambria wln 2617 away: then cease. Enter Cornwall. wln 2618 The day is lost, our friends do all reuolt, Corn. wln 2619 And ioyne against vs with the aduerse part: wln 2620 There is no meanes of safety but by flight, wln 2621 And therefore ile to Cornwall with my Queene. Exit. wln 2622 Enter Cambria. wln 2623 I thinke, there is a deuill in the Campe hath haunted wln 2624 me to day: he hath so tyred me, that in a maner I can fight no wln 2625 more. Enter Mumford. wln 2626 Zounds, here he comes, Ile take me to my horse. wln 2627 Mumford followes him to the dore, and returnes. wln 2628 Farewell (Welshman) give thee but thy due, Mum.wln 2629 Thou hast a light and nimble payre of legs: wln 2630 Thou are more in debt to them then to thy hands:

But if I meet thee once agayne to day,

Ile cut them off, and set them to a better heart.

FINIS.

Sound Drummes and Trumpets. Exeunt.

Chasing the Cornwall King and Cambria:

To saue their liues, the fugitiues did play.

Who with my daughters, daughters did I say?

Repose with me awhile, and then for Fraunce.

Come, sonne and daughter, who did me aduaunce,
